

Unfolding Earth Justice Meeting the Needs of Our Time

With Ian Mason, Head of Law and Economics at the School of Economic Science, Director of the Earth Jurisprudence Resource Centre, and practising barrister.

SATURDAY 7TH JUNE 2008, 10 AM - 4.30 PM

Gaia Learning Centre, 18 Well Walk, Hampstead, London, NW3 1LD

Nearest tube, Hampstead, Northern Line

£45 including seasonal, organic, vegetarian lunch

Real law is discovered, not made. What can be discovered by observing nature? How do we come to a natural way of living? Earth Justice is a search for a new philosophy of law based on reverence & respect for nature, the natural world & human dignity.

There will be practical sessions on connecting with the natural world & learning how to learn from it. Discussion & reflection will enable participants to formulate core concepts & reach a deeper understanding of Earth Justice principles for themselves. We will consider how these principles can be translated into law and governance. The workshop will conclude with an ideas session to formulate practical initiatives for applying Earth Justice at the personal level.

For lawyers & non-lawyers alike, come & spend an inspiring day discovering the principles & origins of Earth Justice.

For more information or to book a place please contact Guy Fisher on guy@gaianet.org or 020 7428 0055. You can also reserve your place online by visiting www.gaiafoundation.org/learning/online.php

Alternatively, you can send a cheque for £10 made payable to 'The Gaia Foundation', 6 Heathgate Place, Agincourt Road, London, NW3 2NU.